Project Management Training and Consulting
Integrating the Art and Science of Project Management

Coaching and Mentoring

Experience and studies have shown that for project management training programs to be effective, that learning must be applied in the work place. Experience has also shown that real project management knowledge comes from on-the-job training and “being thrown into the deep end of the pool, where it’s either sink or swim.”

TriCon Consulting, Inc. can provide on-site or on-call coaching and mentoring to Project Sponsors, Functional and Resource Managers, Project Managers, and Project Teams to help them quickly and effectively apply project management skills.

TriCon has experience coaching and mentoring managers at different organizational levels and degrees of project management skills from new project managers and technical personnel moving into project management to senior managers and sponsors.
